RE: New Phone Scam

It has come to the attention of the Clerk's Office that there may be a new phone scam referencing child support arrears. A caller informed the child support clerk today that she had received an automated voicemail over the weekend stating that she was more than 90 days behind on her child support. She was then instructed to call a phone number and pay the arrears, or it would be put to judgment. We have determined she was not the only one who received such a call. No one from the Clerk's office or Child Support Enforcement will ever call demanding child support payments. If you receive this call, do not call the number on the message.

If you have received a call, feel free to contact your local law enforcement agency.

If you have questions about child support payments, please contact the Clerk's Office at (928) 753-0713.
